

ABSTRACT

- A phosphor layer is formed efficiently in a gas discharge tube by drawing a mother material to fabricate a
- 5 supporting member which is insertable in a small glass tube used for a gas discharge tube, forming a phosphor layer on the supporting member, and inserting and placing the supporting member in the small glass tube.